

Developing Language & Literacy... The Animated Literacy Workshop

by Jim Stone M.A, teacher and author of the program

This workshop would be appropriate for preschool, kindergarten, Grade 1 & 2 teachers and assistants, ESL and special education teachers and speech language pathologists.

Implement a literacy program that will help your students:

- avoid the “4th grade slump” by exposing them to a vocabulary-rich environment in preschool, kindergarten, Grade 1 and 2.
- be strong readers and spellers by strengthening their phonological awareness skills and letter pattern recognition (phonics).
- who have weak speech and language skills, English as a second language and/or reading and spelling problems.

Animated-Literacy™ workshops provide research based, classroom tested lesson plans, methods, and materials that move students from the earliest stages of literacy to fluency and independence in reading and writing. The lessons focus on developing the foundational skills, vocabulary, and text dependent comprehension skills needed to meet the increasing demands of today's classrooms and curriculums. This workshop will show teachers how to use the universal stages of language development to create “scaffolds” that enable students to rise from simple to increasingly complex language skills and concepts in an emotionally supportive and stimulating environment. Model lessons include the use of literature, informational text, storytelling, songs, gestures, manipulatives, sound manipulation activities, and drawing and labeling lessons that develop phonological awareness, word recognition, vocabulary, writing skills, listening comprehension and reading comprehension skills and strategies.
